Justice N.K. Jain, High Court of M.P., Indore had in his judgement dated 27.9.1996 para 12 had pointed out the grave consequences of uncalled for litigative activities of the employers in these words:

"12. It will be thus seen that the petitioners instead of rushing to this Court at this preliminary stage of hearing before the Industrial Court, ought to have waited for its decision in the matter. Needless to add, "the right to life includes the right to livelihood" (See : Olga Tellis' case AIR 1986 SC 180). The petitioner employers who can certainly afford to wait, cannot be, therefore, allowed to exploit jurisdiction to this Court under Art. 226 to avoid decision of issues more vital to the employees."

(The Full Bench order dated 6.4.1999 has up held this judgement and hence this judgement still in force in these matters.)

".....Speaking realistically, where termination of service is questioned as invalid or illegal and the workman has to go through the grant of litigation, his capacity to sustain himself throughout the protracted litigation is such an awesome factor that he may not survive to see the day when relief is granted."
